

An investment in the future of the Fitzroy Basin. Long term reporting on waterway health. Industry connections. Cross-sector collaboration. Social licence to operate. Citizen Science in Action. Community engagement. Financial and in-kind support for waterway research. Water stewardship champion.

What our partners say

Being a member of the FPRH is more than receiving waterway report cards, it's about being part of a community of like-minded individuals and organisations who genuinely care about protecting the environment in which we live and work. CQG Consulting is proud to be a founding member of the Partnership and to have contributed to its achievements since inception.

Patrice Brown

Frances Hayter

The QRC is a foundation member of the Fitzroy Partnership for River Health and believes it plays an essential role in communicating the positive environmental management practices of the resources sector, and delivering real community understanding of river health.

Cotton Australia has been a member of the Fitzroy Partnership for River Health for a number of years. As our growers are among the wide range of custodians of the Fitzroy Basin, it is not only essential that the river system remains healthy, but that we can demonstrate that health. Cotton Australia strongly endorses the work of the Fitzroy Partnership for River Health.

Michael Murray

About us

Fitzroy Partnership for River Health was formed in 2012 and includes a unique membership of government, industry, research and community stakeholders, who all have an interest in the health of waterways across the Fitzroy Basin. The Partnership's role is to facilitate improved water quality monitoring, collate and assess data collected by organisations across the basin, and develop public report cards on waterway health to provide community assurance and certainty. Our dedicated Independent Science Panel works alongside the Partnership to assess data and results to ensure annual report cards are independent, and accurately reflect condition and trends of waterways in the Fitzroy Basin. In 2021, the Partnership reaches a significant milestone releasing its 10th Fitzroy Basin Report Card providing a decade of data, trends and cementing its position as Queensland's leading regional report card collective.

Our Partnership Network, of which every partner is a member, meets regularly to affirm their commitment to waterway health and guide our vision of 'healthy waterways in the Fitzroy Basin through trusted information'. The small Partnership team also works to promote waterway health and encourage citizen science in action to increase awareness about the balance between a busy, working Basin with a growing regional population and waterway health in the largest Australian catchment leading to the World Heritage Protected Great Barrier Reef lagoon.

10 years of waterway reporting. 10 reasons to belong.

- 1 Independent and trusted source of waterway health information. Be part of the most established waterway health partnership in regional Queensland providing trusted and independent reporting to the community.
- 2 A true partnership. Benefit from the collaboration and connection of a diverse and influential network of stakeholders operating in the Fitzroy Basin.
- 3 Social and environmental licence to operate. Demonstrate your organisation's commitment to the environment and waterway health in the Fitzroy Basin.
- 4 Comprehensive dataset. The Fitzroy Partnership is amassing the largest environmental and waterway dataset for the Fitzroy Basin. Be at the table as we work towards a more comprehensive regional monitoring program.
- 5 Up-to-date waterway news. Our members are kept up-to-date with the latest water policy, planning and management activities relevant to the Fitzroy, and have opportunity to discuss river health topics in depth at regular Partner Network meetings and events.
- 6 Detailed water reports. Detailed site reports are available for members only to explore supplied data for your monitoring sites to compare to ecosystem health thresholds.
- 7 Promote your position as a proactive leader supporting a waterway health report card of national and international renown. Report cards, websites, products and events proudly display your logo in recognition of contributions. Use our Member Seal to promote your commitment.
- 8 Expand your network. Build a network of cross-sector contacts across a unique mix of industry, agriculture, resources, government and community.
- 9 Be part of the solution. Knowledge and best-practice opportunities abound at partner network events, forums, and within FPRH products including our water stewardship report.
- 10 Influence our future. All partners are included in the Partners Network meetings and elect our Management Committee. Together these committees guide the strategic direction of the Fitzroy Partnership for River Health.

Invest in the Partnership

Partners pay an annual membership fee along with an additional financial contribution based on waterway monitoring or community and environmental obligation. Minimum investment for partners is $5,100. Major partners are those that contribute more than $25,000. More detail can be provided upon request.

Find out more reasons to join at riverhealth.org.au

We thank those who continue to support us

Queensland Government

Australian Government

BHP

BHP Mitsubishi Alliance

Peabody

GLENCORE

FITZROY BASIN ASSOCIATION

Santos

Operated by origin

sunwater

